S. C. Library Board Representative To Discuss Career Opportunities

Miss Helen L. Jordan, professional assistant for the South Carolina State Library Board, will be on campus Thursday to meet with student groups and with individual students considering careers in librarianship.

Miss Jordan, who is visiting Winthrop in connection with the annual career information program of the State Library Board, will meet students informally in the conference room of Tillman Hall between 10 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

Miss Jordan, accompanied by Miss Pat Mercer, Lancaster County Librarian, will also meet with a library science class Thursday morning at 9 in room 309 of Tillman Hall.

Those wishing to speak to the representative are asked to sign up for interviews at the Office of Guidance and Placement.

The Library Board's information program is planned to inform students of study and work opportunities leading to careers in librarianship. It has been expanded this year to a month-long series of campus consultations, each under the direction of a member of the State Library Board staff.

Special attention will be given to opportunities now available through the Library Board's library intern and scholarship programs.

The State Library Board's scholarship program offers college graduates a year of study at an accredited library school. Each student is sponsored by a particular public library, and upon graduation returns to work in that library for two years.

The scholarship program is now in its fifth year. Twelve scholarship recipients have graduated and three are now enrolled in graduate library schools.

Under the intern program, college students or recent graduates work during the summer months in a South Carolina public library.

ary, where they have an opportunity to learn all phases of library work. The intern program is now in its seventh year, and 98 students have participated.

A series of more than twenty such campus visits has been scheduled, including the majority of the state's senior colleges and universities.

Strindberg's 'Miss Julie' To Be Presented Tuesday

"Miss Julie," a Swedish film translation of the drama by August Strindberg, will be presented at the third movie in the Winthrop Fine Arts Association's cinema series in Byrnes Auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Directed by Alf Sjöberg, the movie depicts the love and neurotic daughter of a 17th century Swedish count, played by Andres Henrikson. Ulf Palme has the role of the count's valet.

The action occurs on Midsummer Eve in 1888, when the daughter, watching the festivities of servants on her father's estate, becomes infatuated with the count's valet.

He seduces her, an unpardonable act against social restriction

Board Approves College Reorganization Building Of Dorm, Library For 1967

The Board of Trustees approved a plan for the college to reorganize the academic area in 1966-67 at the annual fall meeting held on campus last week.

The plan, presented by Dr. Charles S. Davis, college president, and Dr. Walter D. Smith, dean of the college, provides for the division of the college into three colleges: College of Arts and Sciences, College of Home Economics, Music and Business Administration.

He explained that such a move takes considerable time. Board approval permits him to begin a careful study of the procedures and consequences of the proposed change.

The Board also authorized Dr. Davis to proceed with the planning and financing of a new library and another 400 student dormitory to be ready for occupancy in 1967.

If construction is approved by the Budget and Control Board of South Carolina, the new dorm will be built on York Ave. adjacent to the dormitory now under construction.

The proposed library will be built on Oakland Ave. across the street from Tillman Hall on the same tract of land to be occupied by the new student union building.

Dr. Davis estimates that library construction will not begin for 15 months, during which time the college must meet with library planning consultants and obtain legislative approval for the building.

"Winthrop probably has the finest library of any comparable school in the South," Dr. Davis said. "With the new library building we will have the physical facilities necessary to continue to improve this essential part of our academic program."

Dr. Davis also asked and was given approval for a 1966-67 budget request of $3,205,240. This total is $277,662 more than this year's budget, but according to Dr. Davis, "the number of dollars requested per student in the '66-'67 budget is slightly less than the present budget."

On Oct. 22 Dr. Davis presented the request to the South Carolina Budget and Control Board legislative approval.

In other action the board approved an increase in room rent from $200 to $250 in the Bancroft annex and Phelps. Lee Wickor and Thomson dormitories and an annual rent of $250 in the dorm now being constructed.

Rent will remain $200 in the older dormitories.

The Board also gave approval to a resolution of the Council of Presidents of State Colleges and Universities, asking for establishment of a State Advisory Board on Higher Education. This committee would advise the legislature and Budget and Control Board and work with presidents of state institutions on problems of higher education.

In addition the Board gave a vote of appreciation to the Winthrop faculty for their proposed self-study on the improvement of teaching.

Dr. Davis and Dr. Smith presented a detailed projection of Winthrop's academic and capital improvement needs through 1975.

Dr. Smith stated that enrollment at Winthrop is expected to reach 6,000 by 1975, and that the college will need additional instructional areas as well as more faculty members to accommodate academic needs.

Dr. Davis listed new dormitories, additional cafeteria equipment, air conditioning and extension and consolidation of utilities as additions to the physical plant which will be required during the next ten years.

Cyprian Uprising Still Alive In International Student's Mind

by JANIE POLKINHORN

"One night we were in bed about one or two o'clock in the morning, we heard the guns and the light started."

This is how the civil war on Cyprus began in the mind of Zehra Koray, a freshman exchange student from the Turkish section of Nicosia, the capital city of Cyprus.

War broke out when the Greeks wanted to put independent Cyprus under their rule.

According to Zehra, "When we first heard the shots the first thing we thought about was my brother, who wasn't at home. My father went out to look for him and cars of Greeks were running around shooting in the Turkish section."

Zehra said that she and her family "used to hide under the beds or in the cellar during the shooting."

When the fighting stopped August 13, 1964, it still wasn't over for Zehra and her family. Zehra has a 22 year-old brother whom she hasn't seen in over two years. The irony in this is that he is in a village only a few miles from Nicosia.

The Greeks are in control of most of the transportation between the various Turkish sections. Turks go from one part of the island to the other.

Zehra had to have an escort from the American Embassy in order to get to the airport when she came to the United States.

Zehra said that the Greeks are in charge of practically every means of communications on Cyprus. They have all the radio and television stations, and the one Turkish newspaper printed in Nicosia.

According to Zehra, the hope of many of the Turks is that the Greeks will begin to fight among themselves. There is a great possibility of this happening since half the Greeks are communist and half are non-communist, explained Zehra.

Student Aspires To Broadway After Work In Summer Stock

BROADWAY BOUND—Alice Kay Webb spent her summer months doing summer stock in Massachusetts and hopes to continue acting.

by HAYES McGLAUN

"Broadway — 243.5 miles" read a sign inside the dressing room at the Priscilla Beach Theatre in Plymouth, Mass. Alice Kay Webb, a Winthrop sophomore who participated in the Plymouth Drama Festival last summer, said that the sign gave her encouragement during the arduous workshop.

Work was the purpose of the eight-week session. The 20 college students selected from several hundred applicants attended classes in make-up, stage movement, lighting, directing and acting.

The company was responsible for all facets of each production and members even took turns in mopping the theatre — a converted barn, explained Alice.

The busiest night, called Strike Night, was Saturday. In one night, the young people had to dismantle the old set and completely construct the one for the next week's performance.

The Priscilla Beach Theatre, under the management of the Cape Cod Theatre, is 43 years old, the oldest summer stock theatre in America. Some now well-known actors who have attended the Festival are Paul Newman, Michael Todd, Jr., Dan Blocker and Jean Seberg, explained Alice.

During the Festival a different play was performed each week, including "Tom Jones," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad."

Alice Kay found that her southern accent was a serious drawback during try-outs since she was the only southerner in the company. She was given many "bit parts" but the director told her that

WC Graduate Plays Celesta In New York

Bettie Bankhead, who graduated from Winthrop in 1964 as a piano major, will perform in the celesta part in two performances of Bela Bartok's Suite from "The Miraculous Mandarin" with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.

The concert on October 21 is to be in Rochester, N. Y., and on the 24th of October the orchestra will be heard at Colgate University.

The celesta is a small keyboard instrument which was first used in the Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairies in Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker" ballet. The instrument lends color to the orchestral palette, and was a favorite of Bartok in his orchestral works.

Miss Bankhead, who joined the local musicians' union, American Federation of Musicians, in order to perform as a member of the Rochester Philharmonic in her second year of graduate work at the Eastman School of Music, where she will complete requirements for a master's degree in piano this year.

Canterbury To Sponsor Carnival For Children

Canterbury House will sponsor a Halloween carnival today, 5:30-7:30 p. m. at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Rock Hill. Patsie George, Canterbury president, said.

This is one of the two major money-raising projects sponsored by Canterbury each year. The carnival is held primarily for the children of the church, but Patsie urges all interested Winthrop students to go.

Mary Harrison is chairman of the committee responsible for organizing this special event. Patsie said some of the highlights of the carnival will include a spaghetti supper, games and prizes and a puppet show.

cosia cannot be sent from the Turkish section.

Another thing the Greeks are in charge of are the utilities on Cyprus. Zehra said that the entire Turkish water supply and electricity supply could be cut off at the whim of a Greek official.

Food is another problem in Nicosia. Since Nicosia is not an agricultural city, it depends on food from out-lying villages. It is up to the Greeks to decide if they get this food.

"Sometimes," said Zehra, "they don't allow food to come in from outside villages. Once we didn't have vegetables for a month."

According to Zehra, the hope of many of the Turks is that the Greeks will begin to fight among themselves. There is a great possibility of this happening since half the Greeks are communist and half are non-communist, explained Zehra.

Saga To Take Survey Of Student Preferences

Students' favorite foods will be registered with managers Tom Lind of Tillman Hall and John Buey of Thomson Hall through the surveys that will be passed out at hall meetings Monday, Fred Burger, Saga director, announced.

The Saga Food Preference Survey is a questionnaire to determine what students want on their dinner tables. It is being given early in the school year to allow maximum use in planning Winthrop menus throughout the year.

The survey listing 140 food items in eight separate categories such as salads, dinner entrees, and luncheon entrees takes less than 15 minutes to complete.

Fred Burger is asking students to register their preferences on a seven-value rating scale ranging from "Like Very Much" to "Dislike Very Much."

"This not only tells us what you like most, it also measures exactly how much you like each item," explained Burger. "Then it's my job to see that your favorites are served in Tillman and Burger, Saga director, announced."

The completed survey forms will be mailed to Saga's headquarters office in California to be tabulated by electronic data processing. The results will then be returned to the manager to help him prepare his menus.

This is the 10th year Saga has conducted a food popularity poll at the schools it serves throughout the country.

"There is no doubt of its value in helping us provide better, more personalized and satisfying menu selection in our schools," Burger reports.

Fund-Raising Film Taped For Grads

A film, designed for the Winthrop Alumnae Association concerning the status of the alumnae fund-raising drive, was made Sept. 24 in Columbia at the South Carolina Educational Television Studio.

Those participating were Dr. Charles Davis, college president; Dr. Harold Gilbreth, chairman of the business department; and Dr. David Gover, professor of the sociology department.

Also taking part were Roy Flynn, director of public relations; Mrs. Catherine S. Cross, past president of Winthrop Alumnae Association; Mrs. Maie M. From, president of the association; and Susan Grove, a Rock Hill Winthrop student.

The film will be used by chapters of Winthrop Alumnae Associations throughout the nation to show how the money is being used to benefit Winthrop College.

Theology Course Set For Students

A week-end course concerning the basic spirit questions of the post-modern world will be taught for college students throughout the country two week-ends this fall, Nov. 12-14 and Nov. 18-21, at the Ecumenical Institute, 3444 Congress Parkway, Chicago, Ill. The course, entitled "The Contemporary Theological Revolution," includes discussion on the new contextual morality, the new nature of vocation, the value of new educational processes, the meaning of faith, the new image of marriage, the new forms of personal relations and the renewal of the Church.

The instructors, both laymen and clergy, all theologically trained, have originated an unusual teaching methodology using art forms and structured dialogue which they have used with college students over the past 15 years.

Old Car, Honda Save Sore Feet

By LEN STANLEY

Walking to class becoming a drudge? Bored with conventional modes of transportation?

Sue Arnold and Jenny Riddle have solved both of these problems—and had some interesting experiences to boot!

Jenny Riddle, a senior, is the half-owner of a 1930 Model-A Ford. The other half (she didn't say which half) belongs to Bob Richards, a senior at Clemson and Jenny's b.f.

The story goes that last summer Jenny and Bob were riding a back road to her home in Clover and spotted two old cars in a man's yard. Just for curiosity they stopped—and ended up with his wife's car for $160.

"When we got it, it wouldn't run, there were holes in the seat and we had to get a wrecker to drag it home," Jenny said.

They spent the whole summer fixing it up. "Bob was at Clemson summer school and when he came home on weekends, we would spend all day Saturday and Sunday night working on it."

"He would work on the motor and I was on the inside, which I painted," Jenny said. She almost never went back after the first time though—a big rat ran out when she opened the door.

In the latter part of August '64 it finally started running, and it has chugged faithfully since then. Jenny says they have never had any real trouble with it.

When asked about gas mileage, Jenny laughed. "It uses more oil than gas!" She says there is a leak in the oil tank.

Despite the fact that it has no heater and the windshield wiper is liable to fly off at critical times, Jenny and Bob attach much sentimental value to their car and are very indignant if anyone criticizes it.

"At first it was a challenge," Jenny stated. "now it has turned out to be worthwhile. We plan to keep it to let the value go up and then sell it."

The biggest novelty on campus this year, however, is Sue Arnold's Honda Motor Bike. Sue bought her Honda from a man here in Rock Hill who had won it in a raffle. She said she got it because she needed something to ride around campus in.

This is understandable since Sue is not only in almost every drama production she will play the lead in The Hires, but is also manager of WCRC, the campus radio station.

Sue got her love for motorcycles this summer. "I rode a Yamaha in Florida for about three weeks and liked it a lot." She spent most of the rest of her summer in Europe and rode on a Vespa quite a bit in Italy.

"But I got it strictly on a practical basis, says Sue. "It costs less to begin with and it gets nearly 100 miles on a tank of gas—I can fill it up for about 25 cents." One tank of gas is approximately one gallon.

"When I first rode it on campus I got a lot of odd looks," Sue stated. "A lot of professors asked me about it. I guess people didn't think of a girl driving a motorcycle."

"It's getting a little chilly on it now," says Sue, who declares she is going to get some long underwear. It is also slippery when it rains.

However, Sue has only had "three or four mishaps."

MODEL-A — Old cars can be fun as well as practical, according to Ginny Riddle who helped her boyfriend fix the Model-A Ford pictured above so that it would run almost as well as a new one.

ZOOMmmmm — Sue Arnold whizzes around campus on her new Honda which she has found to be a dream in saving time on the way to Johnson Hall for play practice.

Strom Speaks For AAUW

Senator J. Strom Thurmond was the main speaker at the meeting of the American Association of University Women in Columbia, S. C., said Mrs. James L. Ragan, publicity chairman.

Dr. Mildred Beckwith, first vice-president of the state A. A. U. W., presided over part of the meeting on Saturday, Oct. 16.

Those attending from Rock Hill were Mrs. Charles Davis, area representative for cultural interest; Miss Julia Post; Dr. Celeste Wine, state treasurer; and Mrs. Edwin C. White, president of the local A. A. U. W.

General business was discussed and workshops were held for the several committee representatives.

Alpha Kappa Delta Tabulates Results

Alpha Kappa Delta, national honorary society for sociology majors, met Oct. 21 at the home of Dr. Dorothy Jones, society advisor, to tabulate results of a teacher evaluation survey, according to Janet Lansford, society president.

Members discussed answers to a recent poll submitted to sociology students asking their opinions of what comprises excellent teaching qualities. Those present then listed the most commonly suggested characteristics.

Alpha Kappa Delta plans to return this list to the students and ask them to rank the characteristics in order of importance.

The society also decided to submit a questionnaire to students and faculty members in other departments in order to obtain a cross-section of opinion.

Six Language Profs To Attend Meeting

Language teachers from Winthrop will attend the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association in Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 4-6, said James D. Horst, assistant professor of German.

Those planning to attend the meeting are Dr. George D. Crow, chairman of modern languages department; Charles Spencer Deyton, assistant professor of French; Dr. Lucile K. Delano, professor of Spanish.

Also, James D. Horst, assistant professor of German; Jerry Roger Bennett, instructor of French; Mrs. Elizabeth Garner Joiner, instructor of French.

Scholarly papers will be read in all languages and there will be meetings of different organizations of language teachers.

Textbooks will be displayed by the publishers for the observation of the language teachers.

COMMUNION SERVICE

A Communion service led by the Reverend Charles Parrish, minister of the Ebenezer Presbyterian Church of Rock Hill, was held at Westminster House Thursday at 7:30 p. m. announced Miss Virginia Payne, house director.

Board Of Trustees Announces New Self Study Teaching Plan

The Board of Trustees has recommended that the college engage in a self study of teaching this year, Dr. W. D. Smith, dean of the college, announced.

At a meeting on October 20, the board proposed that the entire faculty devote time and effort to the task of improving teaching on campus. In a report to the board the dean said that the "major responsibility of the Winthrop professor is teaching, and that its improvement might come about if the faculty should carry out a self study. This study," he added, "is not too unlike a self study carried out in 1920, however, the present study will be limited to the teaching process."

Board Approves

Members of the Board of Trustees are John G. Dinkins of Manning, Mrs. Robert L. Collins of Spartanburg, Mrs. James W. Godfrey of N. Augusta, W. H. Grier of Rock Hill, Howard L. Burns of Greenwood, Mrs. Legare Hamblton of Georgetown, John T. Roddey of Rock Hill, John H. Martin of Hartsville and B. D. McDonald of Kershaw.

Dean Smith further reported, "In all the proceedings of the college, teaching receives surprisingly little attention. Most of us tend to focus attention on such matters as grades, classroom and laboratory space and equipment, course titles and numbers, social activities, and the like. What the professor does in the classroom is rarely the subject of debate or discussion."

"Winthrop students have from time to time voiced questions about our teaching. They, above all people, know what we are doing in the classroom and their performance is evidence of our success. Students will be involved in the self study after a faculty steering committee is formed. A request for student involvement will probably be one of their first actions."

"Last year the Southern Regional Education Board carried on a study of undergraduate teaching," the dean stated; however, "some of us felt that this study did not have a strong enough design or plan to come to grips with the real issues involved." He then added, "We believe that the self study procedure which has evolved over the last decade in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is a most promising procedure because it involves the essential people: faculty and students."

"It seems certain that a serious self analysis of our teaching efforts on the Winthrop campus will result in improvements noticeable to all of us," Dean Smith said. He added, "We were pleased to have the hearty endorsement of our Board of Trustees for this study."

Jacobson Lectures To Tea On 'Science And Education'

Dr. Nolan P. Jacobson, chairman of the philosophy department, was the guest speaker at the first Student Education Association meeting on Oct. 20, at 6:30 p. m., according to Kempt Stowell, SEA president.

The next SEA meeting will be held Nov. 17 in Thurmond Hall.

Dr. Charles S. Davis will speak and show slides on education in Japan. A combination Thanksgiving-Christmas party will follow.

W-YWCA reads the inscription over the arcs of the windows outside Johnson Hall. But has Winthrop ever had such an organization? And if so, what did it have to do with Johnson Hall?

The answer to this discovery lies in the aged files in the Archives where the history of the Student's Building first began.

Prior to the first World War, a need was felt for an additional building to the campus which would provide space for all student activities, such as the Y-Women's Christian Association, the literary societies, and the Student Government Association.

But from where would such an amount as $120,000 come? Immediately letters of requests for donations for the fund were sent.

President Johnson wrote to many organizations and foundations. Among these including letters of requests for pledges to presidents of several railroads, to large chemical corporations and many other large foundations.

At last an answer to one of his many letters was received. A pledge of $55,000 was made to the Winthrop Normal and Industrial College by John D. Rockefeller.

But only upon the stipulations that an equal amount of the total sum be secured from other sources; that the building would be used for social and religious purposes; that the ownership be vested in the Board of Trustees of the college; and that the contracts for the building be completed by no later than October 1, 1919.

Thus the correspondence continued in one letter to Dr. W. D. Weatherford of Nashville, Tenn. President Johnson asked for a note of introduction to several New York philanthropists. Explaining the Rockefeller grant and the stipulations of it he wrote, "the girls have raised $6,000 but outside help is needed."

This was true, "the girls" were doing their part too. The YWCA was undertaking most of the burden. The organization wrote letters asking for donations and pledges for the erection of the much needed Student's Building.

Answers to their letters were promptly returned — some giving donations, some only giving congratulations on the fine work they were undertaking.

In addition to the role the YWCA played, other campus organizations and students were helping. In one early list of contributions some of the donations were from the SGA, the Athletic Association, the three literary societies, and even a contribution from the seniors washing windows in the Science building.

Although the war conditions now made the task of fund raising difficult and the Rockefeller stipulation of the contract completion date had to be extended, the Student's Building was finally underway. As it progressed, photos were sent to some of the contributing organizations to show the progress being made.

Campus Movie

The campus movie tomorrow night will feature "Thirty-Six Hours" starring James Garner, Rod Taylor, Eva Marie Saint and Rowena Peters.

The movie is open to Winthrop College faculty, staff and students, their dates or immediate family. Identification cards must be shown for admittance.

Finally the building was completed in 1920 and it was placed under the direction of the YWCA.

Later the Student's Building also housed a cafeteria for the faculty which is now the make up room in the basement. Also a canteen was established for students but later moved to Tillman Hall. At this time however no auditorium was provided.

Thus the answers to the inscriptions are found, the dusty files are returned to the shelves and history is once again recorded. But maybe the word should be "repeated" instead of "recorded" as this era of students and administration is too seeking the new establishment of a Student Union Building, in which to house student activities, societies, and organizations. This too will later become part of Winthrop's past history.

Juniors Order Class Rings

A representative from J. Jenkins Sons Co., will be on campus Nov. 3 and 4 to take orders for class rings.

Any student listed as a junior or senior in the registrar's office may order a ring. Two-year business majors may order a pin or a charm.

Payments for the rings must be made at the time of order. A black onyx class ring in yellow gold will cost $16.48, in white gold, $17.51. The official Winthrop College rings range in cost from $11.59 to $15.16, according to weight and engraving. Pins and charms cost $6.95.
